Today's Organ Music

Organ Prelude: Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750) - Prelude in B Minor, BWV 544 for organ

Organ Postlude: Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750) - Fugue in B Minor, BWV 544 for organ

It was Bach's custom to play a prelude at the beginning of the service and to end with a fugue, thereby 'bookending' it with two mighty musical pillars. In that tradition, we will listen today to the Prelude and Fugue in B minor which is considered one of the most profound musical prayers ever written.

Dietrich Bonhoeffer once wrote about Bach's fugues: "An analogy that comes to mind is the fugue. If our life also is only a slightest reflection of such a fragment, in which at least for a short while the various themes, growing ever stronger, harmonize, and in which the great counterpoint is held on to from beginning to end so that finally, after the breaking-off point, the theme can still be heard, then we do not wish to complain about our fragmentary life, but even to be glad for it."
